The Handbook was developed specifically for those landowners who want to manage their forest and its precious resources with a focus on the long term. On behalf of future generations—thank you! Hopefully, this publication will help you and your family to manage your forest to meet your needs and your desires for many years to come. Whether you own 10 or 2,000 acres, you should feel great pride in knowing that your forest helps to clean the air, filter the water and provide food and shelter to literally thousands of plants and animals.
